Give the gift of warmth

The Orange County Rescue Mission is reaching out to the community this Holiday Season to help supply urgently needed items for those less fortunate. While donations of toys and games are plentiful this time of year, donations of basic need items, like blankets, toilet paper and food, have slowed as gift donations have become the focus of donors.

"For those of us fortunate enough to not be in need this time of year it is often hard to imagine that what people really need are basic necessities, the items we often take for granted," explained Jim Palmer, President of The Orange County Rescue Mission. "Donations of basic items are currently our greatest need at the Mission. Without these items, or the funds to buy them, we cannot help to support those in the community that are finding themselves without everyday essentials for themselves and their families this time of year."
