

Bill Riemer, Vice President of Operations

Bill Riemer is Vice President of Operations for the Orange County Rescue Mission. He oversees the Information Technology, Human Capital, Operations, and Programs Departments; providing, with an entrepreneurial approach, the strategic planning necessary to meet the dynamic challenges and opportunities presented to the Rescue Mission on a regular basis. Prior to holding his current position with OCRM he was the Director of Information Technology at the rescue mission. Before coming to the rescue mission he was Operations Manager at the J.L. Wingert Company, an Orange County based firm that specializes in the manufacture and distribution of waste water treatment equipment. Previously to that Bill was a Regional Sales Manager for Archer Daniels Midland Company (number 27 on the 2009 Fortune 500 List of Companies).

Bill has been a Microsoft Certified Systems Engineer (MCSE) since 1999, and a member of the Coalition of Orange County Community Clinics (COCCC) Information Technology Committee for the past several years, serving as the Committee Chairperson as recently as the 2009 calendar year. In 2006 he was appointed to the Orange County Sheriff Departments Professional Services Responder unit (PSR), which provides non-sworn leadership and administrative support to the Orange County Sheriff's Department on a volunteer basis. Additionally, through his involvement with the OC Sheriff's department Bill has passed the CERT training course and is an active member of the Community Emergency Response Team program which is geared to prepare Individuals to assist family, friends and neighbors in responding to and coping with the aftermath of an emergency or disaster.

Born and raised in Southern California, Bill resides with his wife Erin and daughter Brittany in Lake Forest. Additionally, he has an adult son, Evin who is married and working in the Information Technology field for a Internet based company and is currently living in Arizona. An avid off-road motorcycle enthusiast he is a member of the American Motorcycle Association (AMA) and regularly participates with his family and friends in camping and riding adventures centered in and around the mountains and deserts of Southern California.
